Dear Counsel,
Dear colleagues,

Applying the standard provided in Regulation 35(2) of the Regulations of the Court, the Chamber has considered the reasons cited by the Defence in support of its request and finds that good cause has been shown for variation of the time limit. The Defence is directed to file its written observations by midnight on 28 April 2026.

Regards,
PTC I

Dear Pre-Trial Chamber I,

Please consider the email below as a request for authorisation to file the Written Observations after 16:00 and before midnight today.

The Defence submits that good cause exists to allow this slight extension for the unexpected technical error discussed in the below email.

Thank you.

Kind regards,

[REDACTED]

Subject: Delay in Submission of Written Observations

Dear Chamber,

We regret to inform you that we will be unable to file the Written Observations by 16:00 today. Unfortunately, [REDACTED] computer on which the document was saved unexpectedly crashed and all work from the last two hours was lost. We will still be able to file today and will provide courtesy copies to both the Prosecution and Victims' Representatives today.

Thank you very much for your understanding and our apologies for the inconvenience.

Best regards,
